Attn: Hiring Manager,

In his book "Inspired", Marty Cagan describes the job of the product manager as "...to discover a product that is valuable, usable and feasible". I am the innovator and strategic thinker with the drive and hands-on experience to do what it takes to get the job done.

I am the right fit for your Director of Product role. With 17+ years of user experience, product development, and project management experience, I have a proven track record of managing agile teams, creating software products and web-based platforms using agile methodologies.

I'm a Swiss Army Knife of complementary disciplines that cut across an organization related to innovation. I am passionate about these key practice areas and conversant with the teams in all.

- » Project Management
- » Business Strategy
- » User Experience
- » Product Creation
- » Technology
- » Agile Development
- » Sales & Marketing

I know what it takes to manage agile teams, build software platforms, and understand what makes startups tick. I'm not shy to get into the weeds and help out with just getting stuff done. "Living in the grey" between fully understanding the next step and inventing a way forward has really been my MO for the past several years.

I look forward to deeper conversation about the specifics of this exciting role within your organization.

Take care,

Daniel Stouffer
