Attn: Hiring Manager,

In his book “About Face”, Alan Cooper makes the statement “...consumers have little tolerance for websites, apps, and devices that don't live up to their expectations.” Products just have to work, especially interactive products. I am the innovator and strategic thinker with the drive to get it done.

I am the right fit for your User Experience role. I'm a Swiss Army Knife of complementary disciplines that cut across an organization related to user experience. I am passionate about these key practice areas and conversant with the teams in all.

- » User Experience
- » Business Strategy
- » Product Creation
- » Agile Development
- » Technology
- » Project Management
- » Sales & Marketing

With 17+ years of user experience, product development, and project management experience, I have a proven record of managing agile teams, creating interactive products, and software platforms using agile methodologies.

I look forward to deeper conversation about the specifics of this exciting role within your organization.

Take care,

Daniel Stouffer
